SULTANS OF STRING — STUNNING!

People packed St. Bart's Church hall Saturday evening to experience a band that has been called groundbreaking, boundary pushing, infectious and absolutely stunning! The Sultans of String hail from Toronto, and made a stop in Gibsons on their cross-country CD release tour. So many people piled into the hall that it was standing room only, which didn't matter since most were up and dancing by the end. The audience favourite of the night was "Luna," a composition inspired by the west coast story of a native chief in Nootka Sound who was thought to have been reincarnated as a whale. Electrifying fiddler, Chris McKhool magically captured the cries of a young Orca separated from its pod, leaving many people in the audience mopping up tears. The trio's seamless performance and onstage chemistry delighted everyone in the room.
